this volume is a meticulously researched text on pneumatology that puts the major pneumatological issues together without confining to the traditional way of dealing with the doctrine of the holy spirit although pneumatology has been a neglected field in theological discussions of the past there is a renewal of interest among theologians on pneumatology today this renewal of interest has led to the formation of this work on the role of the holy spirit in the protestant systematic theology through highlighting the role and significance of the holy spirit in the whole divine action this volume contends that pneumatology is not a dull theological locus but rather an essential theological disposition relevant for today the detailed arguments found within challenge and inspire the contemporary pneumatological discussions as it relates to all the facets of theological reflection and action in order to reconcile the discrepancies between ancient and modern cosmology confessional scholars from every viewpoint on the interpretation of the early chapters of genesis agree that god accommodated language to finite human understanding but in the history of interpretation no consensus has emerged regarding what accommodation entails at the linguistic level more precise consideration of how the ancient cognitive environment functions in the informative intention of the divine and human authors is necessary not only does relevance theory validate interpretative options that are inherently most probable within the primary communication situation but the application of relevance theory can also help disentangle the complexities of dual authorship inherent in any model of accommodation the results also make a salutary contribution to the theological reading of scripture khaled anatolios a noted expert on the development of nicene theology offers a historically informed theological study of the development of the doctrine of the trinity showing its relevance to christian life and thought today according to anatolios the development of trinitarian doctrine involved a global interpretation of christian faith as a whole consequently the meaning of trinitarian doctrine is to be found in a reappropriation of the process of this development such that the entirety of christian existence is interpreted in a trinitarian manner the book provides essential resources for this reappropriation by identifying the network of theological issues that comprise the systematic scope of nicene theology focusing especially on the trinitarian perspectives of three major theologians athanasius gregory of nyssa and augustine it includes a foreword by brian e daley this book is a brilliant use of metaphor that makes clear why the world leaves us feeling so uneasy in the holy spirit as communion leon harris examines the pneumatologies of colin gunton and frank macchia for both theologians the doctrine of the holy spirit is foundational to understanding their doctrine of god christology and ecclesiology drawing on the theme of communion the holy spirit as communion expresses the concept that the holy spirit is the person who perfects the divine nature and personhood of the father and son it is the holy spirit who perfects the eternal communion within the divine trinity which is the source of the divine action that also perfects the communion in creation as an expression of the father s will through jesus christ the holy spirit as communion explores the essentiality of the holy spirit through a unique approach to spirit christology gunton is represented by a radicalized version of chalcedon christology and macchia formulates his account through the overarching metaphor of spirit baptism therefore the doctrine of god christology ecclesiology and eschatology cannot be construed without a proper account of pneumatology that takes into consideration the eschatological perfecting work of the third person of the trinity who perfects creation s koinonia as a gift from the father through the grace of jesus christ
